Two Piece Suit Ready For Anything

Every wardrobe needs a two piece suit. It is an outfit for any occasion, and a great alternative to wearing a dress or jumpsuit. Suit pants can be worn again for a casual chic day wear look teamed with a crisp white shirt and some heels. The best thing about a blazer is that it will literally go with and over everything! Try a good pair of denim jeans, classic white shirt, and a blazer with a rolled sleeve. It's one of my favorite looks!

Suiting Your Way

No matter the situation, I always recommend business professional wear. It may be conservative, but it's the norm in business, and it really does work well. A well-made, high-quality suit can make you feel in control, powerful, and confident. With Knot Standard, you control the design, style, and the customization of the entire garment. You can add pops of color or unique features to have control over your fashion like never before!

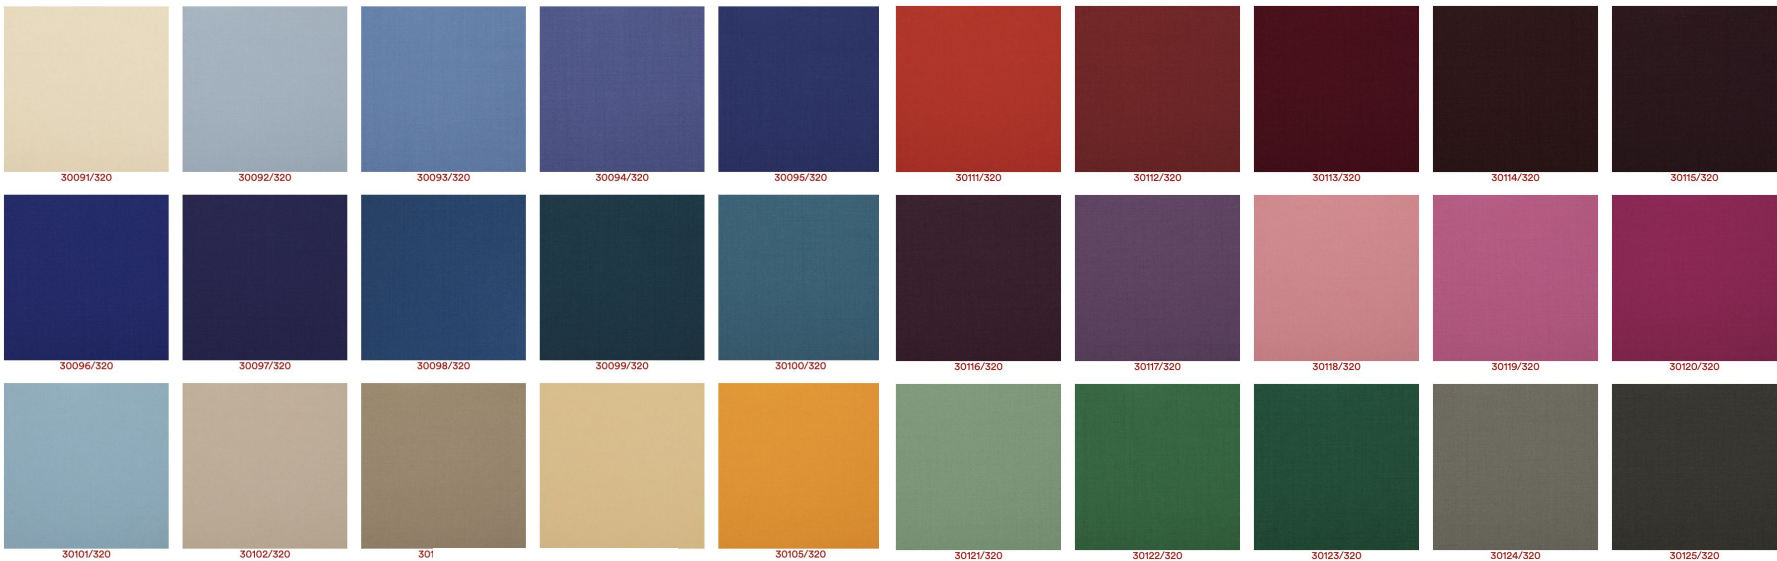

A Pop of Color

One of life's great skills is knowing how to dress for an interview. It's a fine line between expressing your unique personality while respecting general professionalism and the company's dress code. How do you stand out from all the other candidates while also representing your best self? Set yourself apart with a colorful blazer! A versatile piece like this can be dressed up with a matching pant or down with a good denim.

Cool Looks with Tweed

A tweed jacket instantly provides a chic, casual business style and can be paired with just about anything. A Chanel-type tweed jacket with a graphic tee plus distressed jeans makes a cool Casual Friday look. You can actually wear tweed year-round, as it comes in a variety of weights, weaves, and colors. A coat in a classic cut works with nearly everything and is great for a capsule coat wardrobe. It looks so posh and chic with a pop of color.

Make It Personal

Pants or Shorts, Oh My!

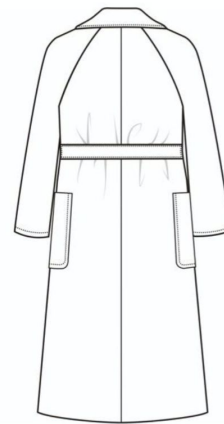

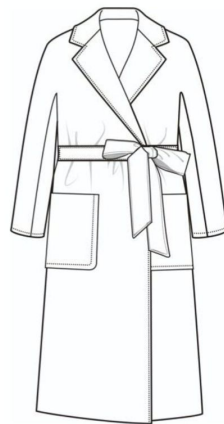

A well-styled suit consists of a flattering jacket worn over a blouse. Both items should complement the your body shape. The lower half of the suit can be either a pair of trousers, a skirt, or shorts for something more trendy. The length and width of the bottom garment influences the silhouette of the suit and should be chosen to match your height and shape.

The Wrap Coat

Since Fall 2014, the wrap coat (or "robe coat") has continually surged as a style staple, keeping us toasty and on trend as we run around town. One of the greatest advantages of the wrap coat is it's adjustable. No more fumbling with tight zippers or pesky buttons — you can tie it yourself! It can be worn with casual or formal looks and will look great each and every time you wear it.

Linen for Summer

Linen shirt fabrics are fantastic for any occasion! They are comfortable for working from home while still looking put together for video calls throughout the day. They can be paired with any pant or short, and can come in many different prints and patterns! A linen shirt is the perfect addition to your summer wardrobe.

The Classic Silk Blouse

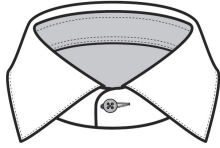

Every stylish woman usually has a white blouse hanging in her closet. Fashion icons like Carolina Herrera, and Meghan Markle have proven the classic white blouse isn't strictly practical. It also conveys an effortless, timeless edge and can make a seamless transition from the office to after-hours. Try a distressed denim and bootie for a more casual style!

The Wedding Look

Not every woman dreams about donning the princess-like ball gown on her special day. Some have more casual or unique ideas such as wearing a suit like Sarah Jessica Parker in the first Sex and the City movie or a really fun short wedding dress like Mary's in The Wedding Planner. If you're the bride that deviates from the mainstream, try a bridal suit!
